

Sharing the Joy of Easter

"God loves us with an outrageous exuberance. He loves us far, far more than is reasonable or rational or sensible. He loves us to death - literally, to his own death, in Jesus on the cross. And the desire of this God, who is love, is that we should share in this overflowing, excessive and abundant love - with him, and with others."

So urges the former Archbishop of Cape Town, (and former political prisoner on Robin Island during the Apartheid regime of South Africa), Njongonkulu Ndungane. PWRDF offers us so many wonderful opportunities to share the Easter joy with some of the most vulnerable and beloved-by-God human beings.

If you are overwhelmed by the ever worsening conditions in the Gaza Strip, PWRDF works with partners in the UK, Australia, New Zealand and of the the Diocese of the Holy Land to bring whatever relief is possible and to plan for restoration. The most recent Anglican Journal contains a heart-breaking and at the same time hope filled report about the Al Ahli Hospital, and also an update on the work in Ukraine.

If you want to contribute to mitigating the catastrophic effects of climate change, The World of Gifts (pwrdf.org/worldofgifts) has a number of projects from clean water in Kenya to radio broadcasts in Colombia.

If you are passionate about the role of women and girls, survivors of sexual or gender-based violence in Uganda are trained as bakers to become financially secure and autonomous.

Your gift of thanksgiving for Christ's victory over death can be made through St. John's or directly to PWRDF. You may designate your gift to a specific program or theme, or offer it to the general fund, letting PWRDF decide where it's most needed.
